DEATHS

MR. R. W. RAMSEY

Funeral services for Dyer Woodson Ramsey, father of Mrs. Alfred Harwood, Jr., were held at the Bethlehem Methodist Church, Sydnorsville, Franklin County, Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Mr. Ramsey died Sunday night at the Gugenheimer Memorial Hospital at the age of 82. He had been in declining health for several years.

Mr. Ramsey, born at Sydnorsville, Franklin County, Feb. 22, 1874, was the son of the late James T. Ramsey and Sarah Heard Ramsey. He was a retired Postmaster and merchant. He had served as Superintendent of the Bethlehem Methodist Church, where he was also a member of the Board of Stewards.

Survivors include three daughters: Mrs. A. M. Goode, Henry; Mrs. George Tyler, Arlington; Mrs. A. R. Harwood, Jr.; five sons, Irving Ramsey, Martinville; Rev. Clifford Ramsey, Richmond; Woodson Ramsey, New York City; John Stuart Ramsey, Columbia, South Carolina; James T. Ramsey, Hagerstown, Md.; sixteen grandchildren, and one great grandson.

MR. ROBERT F. MANN

Robert Floyd Mann, 72, died on Tuesday night in a Staunton hospital, following a brief illness.

Born in Appomattox County on Feb. 15, 1884, he was the son of Charles R. and Elizabeth M. Mann. Mr. Mann was a retired section foreman for the C&O Railroad.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jennie Wooldridge Mann; by three brothers, J. T. Mann, Petersburg; Willis Mann, Appomattox; W. W. Mann, Brewster, Ohio; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted today at 11 A. M. at Robinson Funeral Home here. Burial will be in Liberty Cemetery.

LOANS FOR REFINANCING

Additional details of Farmers Home Administration loans for refinancing of debts were explained today by Walter E. Trent, the agency's local supervisor.

These loans help farmers who are otherwise in a sound position but who are unable to meet their present credit obligations and need credit on more favorable terms and conditions than are currently available from other lenders. Both real estate and operating loans are available for refinancing purposes to owner - operators of farms no larger than family-size. Operating loans for refinancing purposes may also be made to part-owners and tenant operators. The applicants must have adequate security and be carrying on sound farming operations.

The purposes for which loans may be made include refinancing secured real estate debts and the payment of debts secured by liens on livestock, farm equipment, and harvested feed. Under certain conditions loans also may be made for the payment of unsecured debts.

Loans will not be used to refinance any debt until it has been determined that the present creditor or other credit sources are not able to provide the applicant with adequate credit on terms that he could reasonably be expected to meet.

Like other Farmers Home Administration loans, the eligibility of the applicant is determined by the local county committee.

SEED TREATMENT HELPS DISEASE CONTROL

It pays to treat seed of small grains before planting.

Plant pathologists at VPI say seed treatment effectively controls the smut diseases of wheat, oats, and barley, except those that are carried within the seed.

The loose smuts, especially loose smut of wheat and brown loose smut of barley, are controlled only by the hat water treatment, a procedure not considered practical for the average farmer. If loose smut is a problem, but certified seed.

However, the chemica l seed treatment is easy to do and costs little. The two whemicals most commonly used are Ceresan M and Panagen.

The pathodogists say to remember that seed containing over 14 per cent of moisture should not be treated with chemicals, since there is a possibility of injury. Such grain should not be used for seed, at least until the moisture content has been reduced. If seed with a higher moisture must be treated, reduce the amount of chemical by one-half. Seed treated with Ceresan M or Panogen is poisonous and should not be fed to livestock. Do not let the chemical accumulate on your skin, and be careful not to inhale these materials while treating the seed. It is usually safer to treat seed outdoors where fumes can be carried away. Destroy unused treated seed, or label it plainly if it is to be carried over for next year's planting.

NOT OUT FOR LONG

St. Louis.- Released from the hospital after having some medical tests, George White, 53, soon found himself back inside. After leaving the hospital, he walked across the street and was struck by an automobile.

About the only advantage we can see in the disappearance of the vest is that the gravy now lands on a garment that can be washed instead of one that has to be dry-cleaned. —The Columbis, S. C., State.

Health and Beauty

Baby Teeth

It is the duty of every prospective mother to learn and to put into practice everything that is possible to preserve her own health and that of the child. In the case of the child, it commences before birth, and should be carried on until he is old enough to take over for himself. This he will do if properly trained by a careful and intelligent mother.

There are plenty of informative books on the market now that give sensible instruction on the subject. They will be studied by earnest, inquiring mothers. Diet of the pregnant mother is largely a determining factor in her own health and that of the child.

The expectant mother should keep in close touch with her physician and dentist. They will gladly instruct her as to her method of preparation for the little stranger and tell her where she can find books and pamphlets that will give her reliable information.

Some mothers are amazingly ignorant and negligent about the importance of taking proper care of the first or milk teeth of their little ones. The mouth should be kept sweet and clean. The first set of tetth are very important and play a very useful part in the future welfare of the child.

In the first place, everything pertaining to the human body has a very definite and important function to perform. The baby teeth should receive the most meticulous care. Their presence is necessary for mastication of food and for proper development of speech. They are also necessary for the growth and development of the gums, the jaws, face and head. If they did not serve a necessary purpose, they would not exist.

The loss of a single baby or foundation tooth, until it has been absorbed into a permanent tooth and nature is ready to cast off the shell, is a misfortune. Some mothers actually allow the foundation teeth to decay in the helpless child's mouth, and they do nothing to prevent it.

The development of the foundation teeth requires good nutritious food. All babies need plenty of milk to furnish calcium with which to build teeth and bones.

Fluorine in the twenty foundation teeth should be in the mouth by the time he is 2½ or 3 years old. They are necessary for properly chewing the food and the maintenance of health.

If several of these baby teeth are lost, nature cannot properly carry out her designs. The face and jaws will lack the assistance that they would have been afforded by healthful, well - developed, properly functioning baby teeth.

Crooked, crowded, unsightly permanent teeth are often caused by neglect and consequent loss of the foundation teeth.

Travel in Virginia Increased During The 1956 Season

Richmond, Va.- Travel by persons visiting Virginia resorts and historic shrines increased approximately 12 per cent over the 1955 season, according to an annual survey conducted by the State Chamber of Commerce.

The picture produced by the survey of almost 500 places definitely showed that there were more guests, with more money to spend, and more time in which to spend it.

"From the sandy beaches of the Eastern Shore to the cool mountain resorts in the western part of the Commonwealth, the individual travel attractions reported better business," said Frank A. Ernst, Hopewell industrialist who is president of the State Chamber.

Increased advertising and promotional activity was credited by many travel areas as being responsible for bringing more than seven million guests to Virginia resorts, historical and scenic attractions that dot the Old Dominion, Ernst said.

Other factors accounting for the jump in the number of 1956 visitors, Ernst said the survey showed, were new and improved facilities for the travel guests and favorable weather conditions.

Gains noted by the individual resorts and attractions ranged from 2 per cent at one Shenandoah Valley cavern to an 100 per cent increase at a state park area in the Southwest.

The Blue Ridge Parkway, which drew more than 4,000,000 guests, had an increase of 15½% over its 1955 figures — the highest of any national park in the United States.

Mount Vernon, one of the State's and the nation's most popular historical shrines, is located across the Potomac from the nation's capital, and drew more than 1,160,000 visitors. This is an increase of 89 per cent over the 1955 figure, the State Chamber of Commerce survey showed.

A major hotel chain operating in Virginia said that its figures showed an increase of more than 10 per cent in the number of 1956 guests, Ernst said. A 10 per cent increase also was experienced at the popular swimming-and-fishing resort not only on the ocean but also on Virginia's historic rivers.

Mountain and lake resorts in other sections of Virginia this year experienced gains, ranging from 10 to 25 per cent over the 1955 season, the survey showed. One valley cavern said 30 per cent more people visited its underground splendors in 1956.

Many towns and cities, while not recognized primarily for their travel attractions — many are not resorts, but are important transfer and communications points — showed increased numbers of visitors, too. The increases ranged from 4 to 33 per cent.

One community in the Virginia highlands found "more out-of-town shoppers" in 1956 than ever, and declared that its 1956 season was "at least 10 per cent higher" than last year.

Reasons given for the increased camps for boys and girls in the surrounding mountains and increasing number of people who parently want to escape the pressures of general everyday living."

Taking note of the increased ber of travelers on the highways during the 1956 season, the ginia resort areas said they ted more than they had before cause they've been saying story to more and more people through advertising in all newspapers, magazines, radio television.

The Virginia resorts many them hard hit in 1955 by threats of hurricanes, flood the weather in 1956 particularly ive to travel to resorts and spots, the answers to the showed.

TRAPPED 8 DAYS; LIVE

New York.- For eight days and nights, Mrs. Ernest Einhardt, 82, was an prisoner in the bathroom apartment in the heart of city. Mrs. Einhardt became when she accidentally fell the bathroom door, jamming tightly. Then, in trying to she pulled the handle of the knob and the rod slipped on the other side. Living alone, heard her calls for help, no cousin in Dairen, Conn., her repeatedly, finally asked to check on her. They found weak, exhausted, but alive, expected to make full from her ordeal.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

A 90 per cent increase in money-saving and job-improvement suggestions made by Veterans Administration employees throughout the United States during the last fiscal year was the highest of all Federal, State and local Governmental units.

The announcement resulted from the top award made to VA by the National Association of Suggestion Systems at its annual convention in Chicago for the greatest increase in suggestion activities among Government units.

VA said the 1956 accomplishment by its employees will make possible the saving of more than a million dollars to the agency, besides providing intangible benefits, such as better care of hospital patients, and more expeditious handling of correspondence.

LOANS TO PART-TIME FARMERS EXPLAINED

Provisions of the new farm operating and development loan program for farmers who have part-time employment off the farm were explained this week by Walter E. Trent, the Farmers Home Administration County Supervisor for Appomattox and Campbell Counties.

He said that although the main purpose of these loans is to help farmers who live in areas designated for the rural development program, there may be other farmers having part-time employment off the farm who may be eligible for operating and farm development loans.

To be eligible the applicant must be of legal age, a citizen of the United States, unable to get credit from other sources and have had farm experience or training sufficient to indicate reasonable prospects of continuing successful farming operations. He must be an established farmer, conducting substantial farming operations and spending a major portion of his time farming. The applicant must have a dependable source of outside income.

The loan applicant's farm must be of such size and productive capacity that the expected income, plus the income from part-time employment, is sufficient to pay farm operating and living expenses, pay debts, and provide a reasonable reserve for emergencies.

The county Committee will determine the eligibility of each applicant, James A. Carson, Walter E. Henry and John A. Gilley are the members of the Appomattox County Farmers Home Administration committee.

OUTGO IMPORTANT ON DAIRY FARMS

The answer to profit on a dairy farm lies in efficiency.

This is pointed up, says Dr. W. S. Griffith of the VPI dairy science department, in a recent survey of 200 central New York dairy farms, which showed that the top 20 farmers whose income averaged $6,000 had about the same size labor force and capital investment as those who lost money.

The study, conducted by Cornell University and applicable on any dairy farm, revealed that to make that $6,000 the 20 highest income farmers actually spent an average of $233 less than the 20 low income farmers.

The average labor force was about two men on both groups of farms. Average capital investment for the lowest income farms was $45,104 compared to $46,485 for the high income farms.

Cost control and the efficient use of capital are two important reasons for the difference in income.

The average labor income per operator on all 200 farms was $2,482. The top 20 averaged $6,000, and the bottom 20 a minus $1,000.

Quality of stock was an important factor. The top income farms invested 12,000 in cattle and $9,000 in machinery while the low income farms invested $9,000 in cattle and $12,000 in machinery.

It was noted that the low 20 spent more money for feed, machinery, repairs and building repairs than the top 20.

While the bottom 20 farms averaged 150,775 pounds of milk produced per man per year, the top 20 averaged 195,130 pounds.
